DETAILED ACTION

Currently, Claims 1-8 are pending. Claims 1-2, 8 are examined on the merits.

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on Feb. 14, 2008 has been entered.

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election of the species in Claim 8, Kakon-to and Sho-saiko-to, in the reply filed on March 31, 2008 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claims 3-7 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on March 31, 2008.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention for the reasons set forth in the previous Office

Art Unit: 1655

Action. All of Applicant's arguments regarding this ground of rejection have been fully considered but are not persuasive. Applicant argues that "Chinese herbal medicine" is not indefinite.

"Chinese" herbal medicine can refer to origins based on geography, race, tradition. Depending on who writes the history, something may be deemed "Chinese" while others may not. The U.S. patents listed all recite "Chinese" medicine; however, each claim has specific types of plants cited to further define the term "Chinese" medicine. The Applicant's claim does not further define this term, until claim 8.

Therefore, the term "Chinese herbal medicine" in claims 1-2 is unclear.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-2, 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Inoue et al. (WO 00/24273 with US 2007/0212460 A1 as translation).

Inoue et al. teaches Chinese medicine formulations include Ge Gan Tang (Kakon-to) and Xiao Chai Hu Tang (Sho-saiko-to) (paragraph 0309) as oral composition of jellies (paragraph 0328) made with hydrocolloids at 0.01-10wt% (paragraph 0344) of locust bean gum (carob bean gum), carrageenan (paragraph 0338), xanthan gum (paragraph 0340). However, it does not teach the claimed concentrations.

The reference does teach that each of the claimed ingredients is suitable for combination in a pharmaceutical composition. Thus, an artisan of ordinary skill would be reasonably expected that the claimed ingredient could be combined together to produce a single pharmaceutical product. This reasonable expectation of success would motivate the artisan to combine the claimed ingredients together into a single composition.

The reference also does not specifically teach adding the ingredients in the amounts claimed by applicant. The amount of a specific ingredient in a composition is clearly a result effective parameter that a person of ordinary skill in the art would routinely optimize. "[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation." In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955). Thus, optimization of general conditions is a routine practice that would be obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art to employ. It would have been customary for an artisan of ordinary skill to determine the optimal amount of each ingredient to add in order to best achieve the desired results. Thus, absent some demonstration of unexpected results from the claimed parameters, this optimization of ingredient amount would have been obvious at the time of applicant's invention.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.
